

I feel that I have the right to have my name on a list so telemarketers can not call me. My husband and I work different shifts and nothing is worse than being woken up for information on services I have no need for. I feel if we want the information we are able to get it ourselves and contact those companies.